There will be an ice cream supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edd Simpson of Teatersville, Saturday, August 21, for the benefit of the church.

From so much of Colonel Roosevelt's intentions as have been divulged it is apparent that the Republican stand-patters are not to have the political joy-ride in 1916 that they expected.

Co operation of our Government with those of South and Central American States in a plan to restore order in Mexico, which we have been urging for many months, seems at last to be assured.

It takes a rich man to draw a check, a pretty girl to draw attention, a horse to draw a cart, a porous plaster to draw skin; a toper to draw a cork, a free lunch to draw a crowd; and a well displayed advertisement in this paper to draw trade.

Not a thousand miles away from here on a recent Sunday a farmer in church very eloquently supplicated the Lord to help the needy and poor in the community. When going home his little son very artfully remarked: "Say pa, if I had as much wheat and corn in the barn as you have I'd help the poor myself and not bother the Lord about it."

Why is a newspaper like a pretty woman? To be perfect it must be the embodiment of many types. Its form is made up. It is always chased though inclined to be giddy. It enjoys a good press; the more rapid the better. It has a weakness for gossip. Talks a good deal. Can stand some praise, and it's awfully proud of a new dress.

Feast and your friends are many; fast and they eat you dead; they'll not get mad if you treat them bad, so long as their stomachs are fed. Steal if you get a million, for then you can furnish bail; it's the great big thief who gets out on leave, while the little ones get to jail. Advertise and the dollars come to you, quit and they fail to come in, for what care the men who have money to spend, for the men who don't care to see them.

Of course if you are contemplating going to school this fall you are thinking and planning for it now, and that is right. It is none too soon to begin to make arrangements and to cast about for a desirable place. We gladly refer you to our school. No town in the state has a higher moral tone and fewer objectionable features. Our school offers unusual facilities for a proper culture of the mind at a very moderate expense, and you are very cordially invited to investigate before you decide to go elsewhere.

HEMP CUTTING

One of the best crops of hemp ever grown in the county is now being cut and the quality is unusually fine. Some forward tobacco is also being cut, with good quality, but light in texture and weight.

DELEGATE TO GRAND LODGE

Ernest Doty a well known local colored man and Master of the Lancaster colored lodge of Masons, attended the meeting of the State Grand Lodge, which convened in Paris, Ky., last week, as a delegate from the local lodge.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Miss Mary Miller Woods, the attractive little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Woods gave a delightful party to her young friends, the occasion being her tenth birthday, which was on Wednesday, August 4th. Several score of her friends were present and enjoyed the afternoon thoroughly. Delightful refreshments were served.

POFF-WOODS.

Miss Mary Poff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Poff, of this city, was married last Monday evening, to Mr. William B. Woods. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Rockwell Smith at his residence on Water street. Miss Poff has been in the telephone exchange for several years and Mr. Woods is an electrician for the same company.

STANFORD FAIR.

In this issue appears the advertisement of the Stanford K. of P. Fair. This promises to be the best fair held in Central Kentucky this year, for they have offered a splendid premium list and a good show of stock is assured. Garrard county people should remember the way that Lincoln supported our Fairs and attend the Fair at Stanford, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

CLOSE.

The lesson was from the "Prodigal Son," and the S. S. teacher was dwelling on the character of the elder brother. "But amidst all the rejoicing," he said, "there was one to whom the prodigal's return gave no pleasure but only bitterness; one who did not approve of the feast being held and had no wish to attend it; now can any one of you tell who this was?" There was a short silence, followed by the vigorous snapping of fingers and then from a dozen little mouths came the chorus: "Please sir, it was the fatted calf."

GOOD DEMOCRATIC VOTE IN GARRARD

STANLEY AND HARDIN GET BIG MAJORITIES

MASON AND DOTY RACE CLOSE.

The Primary passed off quietly in this County, although the contest was spirited throughout. Stanley carried the county by 403, McChesney running second, Lieutenant Governor McDermott received but forty votes in the County. Stanley carried every precinct as did Judge Chas. A. Hardin, Candidate for Circuit Judge over his opponent, Chas. C. Fox.

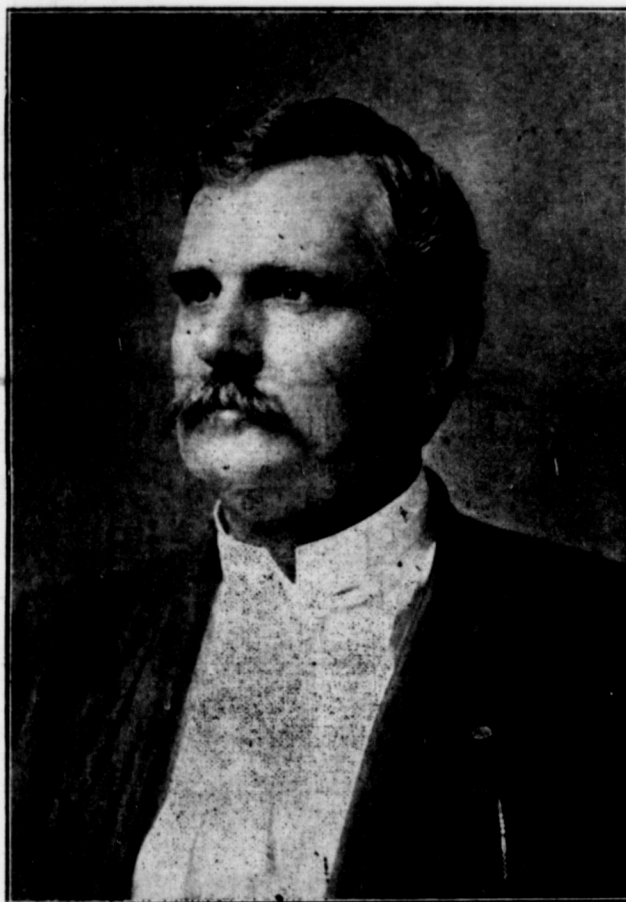

The closest race of the day was between W. B. Mason and W. A. Doty for the nomination for Circuit Court Clerk, the former winning by 94. Jas D. Black carried the County over Jas. P. Edwards for the nomination for Lieutenant Governor by 2.

The vote by precincts was as follows:

PRECINCTS:	Stanley	McChesney	Hardin	Fox	Purveyer	Owlesley	Mason	Doty
East Park	126	92	156	67	105	98	101	123
Court House	121	60	137	57	99	76	92	99

West Park	84	34	86	21	67	35	63	56
Total	825	424	905	304	684	387	657	563

In the race for Secretary of State W. P. Walton carried the county by 250 majority over Barksdale Hamlett, his nearest opponent. For Auditor, Robert L. Green's majority over Thos. Rhea was 340. For Clerk of the Court of Appeals Rodmann W. Keenon carried the county by 67 majority over Alvin Steger, his nearest opponent. For Superintendent of Public Instruction, R. S. Eubank's majority was 161. Mat S. Choen's majority in the race for Commissioner of Agriculture was 292. In the race between W. F. Klair and Sid Douthitt for Railroad Commissioner, the latter got a majority of 14. For Treasurer, Sherman Goodpaster carried the county by 139 over Claude B. Terrell.

The Democratic vote in Garrard County was the heaviest ever polled in a State Primary, there being 1305 votes cast for Governor.

RE-ELECTED.

Judge Chas. A. Hardin, re-elected to the Circuit Judgeship of this Judicial District, won from his opponent, Hon. Chas. C. Fox of Danville by an unprecedented majority. He carried every county in his district; Garrard by 601, Boyle by 298, Lincoln by 585, and Mercer by 705.

"FAIR" BOOSTERS.

Watch for the Stanford Fairboosters on Saturday afternoon. Every pretty girl in Lincoln will be here boosting their Fair, and advance reports say that it takes more automobiles to carry them than Sid Douthitt's friends used.

JONES SIMPSON PAROLED.

The State Board of Prison Commissioners have granted a parole to Jones Simpson of this county, sentenced eight years ago to serve twenty one years for the killing of Bud Casey. Casey was found with his head crushed in a burned house and Simpson was accused of the crime and convicted. The evidence was largely circumstantial, and application was made to Governor Willson for a parole, but in refusing he said that he thought Simpson should serve five years before applying.

PURYEAR GETS

GOOD MAJORITY

In Race For Commonwealth's Attorney.

Judge Emmett Puryear received a vote of confidence from the democrats of his district when he was re-elected to the office of Commonwealth's Attorney by a good majority over his opponent Hon. John Sym Owlesley. He won by a majority of 735 votes, carrying Boyle by 726, Garrard by 297, Mercer by about 550, while Lincoln went to his opponent by about 900 majority.

MORROW AND WALKER TO HEAD REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Edwin P. Morrow, the acknowledged Republican Nominee for Governor, will carry the Republican standard in the campaign against A. O. Stanley, and Judge Lewis L. Walker was nominated by the Republicans for Lieutenant Governor by an overwhelming majority. Judge Walker carried every county and carried this, his home county, with only 19 votes going to his opponents.

Little interest was taken in the Primary by the Republicans in this county in as much as their candidates for county offices have already received their certificates of nomination without opposition. Joe Hammonds is opposing Thos. Ballard for Sheriff, Joe Haselden is the Republican Nominee opposing H. Clay Kauffman for Representative, and Joe Burnside is the candidate for Circuit Court Clerk against W. B. Mason, the Democratic Candidate.

The Republicans nominated the following State Ticket in Saturday's Primary.

Governor, Edwin P. Morrow of Somerset.

Lieutenant Governor, Lewis L. Walker of Lancaster.

Secretary of State, James P. Lewis, of Whitesburg.

Auditor, Edward A. Webber of Fort Thomas.

Treasurer, Wm. A. Hunter of Louisville.

Clerk of the Court of Appeals, Earl C. Huntman of Scottsville.

of fine well-improved land, in a high state of cultivation, having been mostly in grass for a number of years, and part of it in blue-grass 25 years. This farm is a good producer of any of the crops raised in this section of the country, and has long been known as the best wheat and hemp farm in the county. It is well watered and under good fencing, and also an ideal stock farm. Therefore, it is now ready for stock raising or general farming, such as hemp, tobacco or any other crops common to this section. This farm is well located on a good turnpike road one-half mile from Buena Vista postoffice, having two daily mails; five miles from Burgin Station on the Q. & C. Railway; 3 1/2 miles from Bryantsville and one and a half hours drive from Lancaster, Danville and Harrodsburg. Convenient to churches, school, store and blacksmith-shop. STANLEY IS NAMED IN STATE PRIMARY

Defeats McChesney and McDermott by Decisive Vote.

PROHIBITION THE ISSUE

Stanley Sweeps the State from One End to the Other and Plurality Reaches 42,800—Race for Lieutenant Governor Close Between Edwards and Black.

THOSE NOMINATED.

Governor—A. O. STANLEY.
Lieut. Governor—JAMES D. BLACK (doubtful).
Secretary of State—BARKSDALE HAMLETT (doubtful).
Attorney General—M. M. LOGAN.
State Auditor—R. L. GREENE.

Clerk of Court of Appeals—RODMAN W. KEENON.
Supt. Public Instruction—R. S. EUBANK.
Comm. of Agriculture—MATT S. COHEN.

Frankfort, Ky., August 10.—Kentucky Democrats in the state primary Saturday showed conclusively that they are not ready yet to nominate a man for Governor who is committed to Statewide Prohibition.

Former Congressman A. O. Stanley, of Henderson, who is an avowed coun-by American Press Association.

A. O. STANLEY

ty unit law advocate, was nominated over Harry W. McChesney, of Frankfort, and Lieut. Governor Edward J. McDermott, of Louisville.

Mr. McChesney made it plain to the voters throughout a strenuous campaign that he stood for Statewide Prohibition. His vote was largely confined to the rural districts, and, while one hundred and six counties out of one hundred and twenty are dry under the county unit law, he failed to carry many of them.

Edward J. McDermott was non-committal as to his convictions, but it was generally supposed that he stood for the county unit law as against statewide prohibition. He carried only his home city of Louisville, falling down in Jefferson County outside of the city, carrying only one precinct. He ran a poor third throughout the state.

Stanley's victory was overwhelming, sweeping the state from one end to the other. Since his defeat for the United States Senatorship in the fall of 1914, he has been stumping the state, and it is said that he made more stump speeches than any other candidate in the race.

Stanley was given national prominence when as a member of Congress he was appointed Chairman of the Steel Trust Investigation Committee, and through this rigid work which he carried on for two years attracted much notoriety through the magazines and newspapers. He was elected to six consecutive terms in Congress by the Second District and served until March of this year, when his term expired.

MANAGED BY HAGER.

The Stanley campaign was managed by Judge S. W. Hager, of Owensboro, prominent politician, and who was defeated for Governor on the Democratic ticket in 1907.

VOTE BY DISTRICT.

Some counties in the mountain section and also remote precincts of other counties are missing.

FIRST DISTRICT—Stanley, 10,212; McChesney, 9,238; McDermott, 987.

SECOND DISTRICT—Stanley, 13,609; McChesney, 6,220; McDermott, 1,515.

THIRD DISTRICT—Stanley, 8,507; McChesney, 4,359; McDermott, 455.

FOURTH DISTRICT—Stanley, 7,

455; McChesney, 5,594; McDermott, 1,915.

FIFTH DISTRICT—Stanley, 7,991; McChesney, 1,800; McDermott, 10,998.

SIXTH DISTRICT—Stanley, 10,474; McChesney, 3,090; McDermott, 3,717.

SEVENTH DISTRICT—Stanley, 11,493; McChesney, 7,397; McDermott, 2,893.

EIGHTH DISTRICT—Stanley, 7,927; McChesney, 6,154; McDermott, 858.

NINTH DISTRICT—Stanley, 6,934; McChesney, 5,477; McDermott, 619.

TENTH DISTRICT—Stanley, 1,978; McChesney, 483; McDermott, 412.

ELEVENTH DISTRICT—Stanley, 2,013; McChesney, 1,177; McDermott, 444.

CARRIES ALL BUT FIFTH.

Stanley carried every district in the state by a substantial majority except the Fifth District, the home of Lieut. Governor Edward J. McDermott, and even here he ran a close second. There have been few instances in Kentucky politics where a candidate has not completely swept the state.

BLACK STILL AHEAD.

In the race for Lieutenant Governor, James D. Black, of Harboursville, is leading by a safe majority, with 12 counties out, over James P. Edwards, of Louisville.

Black claims that the mountain counties will swell his majority. Edwards claims he will win by fifteen hundred. This, however, seems to be improbable of fulfillment, as all mountain counties heard from so far give Black a majority.

Judge Black issued a statement that his plurality will be between 4,000 and 5,000.

Edwards was a running mate of Stanley and stands for the county unit.

Black has openly favored Statewide Prohibition, and if his election is certain it may mean that the dry question will be in calcium again. Two years ago a statewide bill passed the House and failed in the Senate. Should the Harboursville man preside over the Senate it would give statewide a big advantage, even though the Governor may stand for the county unit.

ARNETT RUNNING STRONG.

The race for Secretary of State, still in doubt, sprung a surprise as some of the late figures were totaled, and shows that C. D. Arnett, of West Liberty, is running strong and may outdistance Barksdale Hamlett, of Frankfort, and Charles W. Milliken, of Louisville.

Hamlett's plurality of 3,341, with some counties missing, appears safe. Milliken claims race by 3,000.

GREEN BY 10,000.

Robert L. Green, of Frankfort, defeated Thos. S. Rhea, of Russellville, for the nomination of State Auditor by a majority of 10,000.

GOODPASTER FOR TREASURER.

Sherman Goodpaster, nominee for State Treasurer, has won by a majority of between 10,000 and 12,000 over Claude B. Terrell, of Bedford.

APPEARS KEENON WON.

It appears that Rodman W. Keenon, of Harboursburg, has won the office of Clerk of the Court of Appeals over Alvin Steger, of Owenton, by a small majority. Several of the mountain counties are out and may change the result.

COMEN SAFE MAJORITY.

Matt S. Cohen won the race for Commissioner of Agriculture by a plurality of 18,000 over his opponents.

OFFICIAL COUNT NECESSARY.

In at least three races, it was said today, the results would not be definitely known until the official returns are canvassed by the State Election Board at Frankfort, August 21.

The official count in the various counties will begin Wednesday, and returns will be made to the State Board within the next ten days.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM CONVENTION.

The Democratic platform convention will be the next scene in Kentucky's continuous performance political show for the purpose of promulgating a platform to put under the Democratic candidates named Saturday to try conclusions with the Republican and Progressive nominees at the regular election on Tuesday, November 2.

With A. O. Stanley, the Democratic nominee, and pledged to the county unit law and against statewide prohibition, it is practically certain that the county unit sentiment will pervade the convention, and, with the views of President Woodrow Wilson and Senator Ollie M. James, which are in keeping with the view of the Kentucky Democracy as expressed in the convention of 1911, will be written into the platform of this year.

Within the next week or ten days State Democratic Chairman Vansant will call the state committees together and fix the time and place for the assembly of the delegates and to determine the date and manner for the selection of the delegates.

FIRST PRIMARY ELECTION.

This was the first campaign for nomination for state offices under the primary election law adopted by the General Assembly in 1912.

PROGRESSIVES TO MEET.

Louisville, Ky., August 10.—It is said that the Progressives propose to inject a statewide prohibition platform into their party for the general election on Tuesday, November 2.

Little interest was manifested in their primary Saturday. A state platform convention has been called for August 20.

Frankfort, Ky., August 10.—Edwin P. Morrow, of Somerset, was chosen the Republican standard-bearer by an overwhelming majority over his opponent, Latt F. McLaughlin, of Madisonville, whose vote was negligible. There was little opposition to the Republicans who were decided upon at the Lexington convention held two months ago.

Lack of opposition failed to stimulate interest among the Republicans in many sections of the state, some counties casting only a few votes.

PLATFORM BEFORE NOMINATION.

The Republicans at their Lexington convention decided upon a platform which stands for the county unit as against statewide prohibition.

Agreed with the attitude of the Democrats on this matter, there will be little division in the parties, with the exception of the Progressive vote, the leaders of whom claim they will draw from both parties.

KENTON STRONG.

Kenton County gave Morrow the biggest vote of any county in the state at the Saturday primary.

FIRST PRIMARY.

This is the first primary in which the Republicans have ever participated. Formerly and before the recent enactment of the General Assembly of Kentucky all nominees were selected by the old-time conventions.

HARD BATTLE FOR NOVEMBER.

Headed by State Chairman Ed Franks, of Owensboro, the Republicans have laid plans for a strenuous fight at the November election.

While the state is normally Democratic, the Republicans expect a similar recurrence of 1907, when William W. Bradley, was elected Governor and Bradley to the United States Senate.

This is the first primary in which the Republicans have ever participated. Formerly and before the recent enactment of the General Assembly of Kentucky all nominees were selected by the old-time conventions.

HARD BATTLE FOR NOVEMBER.

Headed by State Chairman Ed Franks, of Owensboro, the Republicans have laid plans for a strenuous fight at the November election.

While the state is normally Democratic, the Republicans expect a similar recurrence of 1907, when William W. Bradley, was elected Governor and Bradley to the United States Senate.

CARTHAGE WOMAN TELLS HAPPY STORY

Mrs. Laura Duke of Carthage, Tenn., was a victim of stomach disorders for several years. She lost appetite and her weight fell off. She could not rest at night.

She took May's Wonderful Remedy—just a few doses—and found herself restored.

In fact, Mrs. Duke's recovery was so rapid she was afraid that it could be only temporary. So she waited from September, when she took the remedy, until the following February to pass judgment. Then she wrote:

"I write you in regard to your wonderful stomach remedy that I took last September. I feel better than I have in five years.

"My weight was 127½ pounds; now it is 147½, and I can eat anything I want. I sleep well at night. I would have written before, but I wanted to see how I got along."

May's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

PULL FOR YOUR TOWN.

No town will become a good business center so long as its business men rely on a few merchants to make the effort to bring trade to town. Too often the men in a few lines of trade are about the only ones that reach out after custom. Other merchants wait until these men induce the people to come to town and content themselves with trade that naturally drifts to their place. A public spirited man should ask himself if he is doing his best to attract people to come to town to trade in helping the entire business community and no town is a success unless all lines are working to extend the trade as far as possible and trying to bring a large territory in the circles in which the town is the business center.

Politeness.

Politeness appears to have been invented to enable people who would naturally fall out to live together in peace.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Central Record is authorized to announce the following candidates for office, subject to the Democratic primary, August 7th, 1915.

FOR GOVERNOR.
Hon. A. O. Stanley.
FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE.
C. A. Hardin, of Mercer county.
FOR COMMONWEALTH'S ATTORNEY.
E. V. Puryear, of Boyle county.
FOR CIRCUIT CLERK.
William B. Mason.
FOR SHERIFF.
G. T. Ballard, Jr.
FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
H. Clay Kaufman.

We are authorized to announce Miss Jennie Higgins a candidate for County School Superintendent of Garrard County, subject to the action of the Democratic primary August 1917.

We are authorized to announce Joe S. Haselden, of this city, Republican candidate, for Representative at November election 1915.

We are authorized to announce Joe A. Burnside, candidate on Republican ticket, for Circuit Court Clerk, at November election 1915.

Hon. A. O. Stanley, has given the following statement to the public, summarizing his views and giving what will probably be the essence of the Democratic Platform. The statement is as follows:

"It is natural that a number of worthy Democrats should entertain the laudable ambition to serve their party and their country as Governor of the State. The Democratic party must necessarily make a selection. On August 7 I was the fortunate aspirant. I feel assured that the distinguished gentlemen who sought this nomination and their loyal Democratic friends will close ranks with their comrades who supported me prior to the primary and that together we shall march to the real battle and the real victory in November.

In this last primary the Democratic party of Kentucky made a choice not so much between men as measures. The issue which the Democracy of Kentucky was called upon to decide was simple and sharply drawn—namely, whether it would continue to maintain the principle of local option and local self-government or try the experiment of State-wide prohibition. It was in its essence a referendum to the people. After a campaign of education, thorough and elaborate, and after discussion of this subject in every county in the State, the people have rendered their decision, and have definitely determined, as I interpret the returns from the last primary, to reaffirm the position taken in 1911 and to maintain the county law as it is now written.

Hoping that this question may be eliminated from politics and that we may begin now to seriously consider grave and pressing matters, I take this occasion again to assure the people of Kentucky that if elected Governor I shall exert all the power vested in me to prevent its further agitation and to maintain intact and without change or amendment the county unit law as now enacted.

The Democratic party is, by tradition, by inheritance, by experience and by right of the majority so often expressed at the polls, the natural guardian of the political fortunes of Kentucky. When our battle is won in November we must at once take up the serious work of solving the problems that confront our State. Kentucky needs remedial and constructive legislation which looks to the advancement of our educational agricultural and financial conditions. Only through such legislation can the interests of our people be adequately conserved and the full destiny of Kentucky properly realized, and our great State be made for the interests of all of its citizens, in truth as in name, a Commonwealth."

The whole country is relieved that the primary election is over. The result not only pleases us but from the unprecedented majority given the nominee for Governor, it is but fair to assume, that the democrats of the State are also pleased. Results of the primary thoroughly unite our party and we go forth to battle with the common enemy with every hope of triumphant success in November. Our leader is a brilliant orator, a broad minded statesman, incorruptible and honest and a true friend of the masses. His twelve years of service in Congress, where he always fought the battles of the people, seasons him well in experience for the important executive duties he will assume upon his election as Governor. He will make a brilliant campaign in defense of the National Administration and President Wilson, for whom Mr. Stanley has the deepest admiration. His administration of the affairs in Kentucky will mark the beginning of a new era of reform and business progress in our State. We have long known and admired this great young Kentuckian for his ability, courage, honesty, frankness and loyalty to his friends. Under his leadership the entire democratic ticket will be elected in November and Kentucky democrats will endorse the National Administration with her electoral vote in 1916.

The high compliment to Judge Charles A. Hardin by such a large majority over his opponent was no surprise to the public. Judge Fox is a lawyer of recognized ability, a good democrat and a popular gentleman, and any lawyer in the 13th District, who had undertaken the task that Judge Fox did would have shared his fate. Judge Hardin had only served half a term upon the bench and his official record, both as Commonwealth Attorney and Circuit Judge, has received from the public the highest praise and has been most generally satisfactory. He is recognized by his party as a loyal democrat and is held in the highest esteem by the people as a representative citizen and a Christian gentleman. Judge Hardin deserved the endorsement that he received, not only from the democratic party but from the people that he has served so well. This primary demonstrates that Judge Charles A. Hardin is one of the most popular Circuit Judges in the State of Kentucky.

After the scandal of the Becker coffin plate comes the scandal of the Becker funeral—one far wider in its bearings and far more difficult to handle and end. The charge that the man twice convicted in the courts was murdered by the Governor who did not save him from the penalty imposed by law can easily enough be forgotten as the hysterical raving of a grief-stricken woman, and it was wisely held that no action except the removal and sequestration of the offensive legend was required. That several members of the police force should have paid to Becker the public honor of acting as his pallbearers is quite another matter, however, and a much more serious one. These policemen, by acting in this capacity, deliberately proclaimed sympathy with a former associate whose proved conduct had brought disgrace upon the organization to which they belong. By almost inevitable implication they protested against the punishment he received and denied the justice of the courts.

Our trade has suffered from the British blockade as our trade and our citizens have suffered from German operations within the so-called war zone. The Government at Washington will be alert to safeguard our interests whether interfered with by Germany or by England, but neither the American Government nor the American people will ignore the fundamental differences between the two classes of questions. One class concerns our rights of trade under the established principles of law, the other the right of our citizens to travel upon seas without exposing themselves to peril of their lives through murderous practices which can have no defense in law.

THIS GOOD FARM WILL SELL

In this issue of the Central Record appears the advertisement announcing the sale of the farm of R. H. Bronaugh near Crab Orchard. This is a splendid farm and Mr. Bronaugh tells us that the sale will be absolute. It will positively be sold on August 27th.

CENTRAL LIFE SUED.

Alleging that the Central Life Insurance Company is insolvent and charging its officers and directors with mismanagement, Charles M. Gaines, of Anderson, Ind., a stockholder, policyholder and creditor of the company, filed suit in the Circuit Court at Lexington, last Tuesday, asking that the company be placed in the hands of a receiver.

WARBURTON-CLARKE.

Mr. Virley Clarke, of Cynthiana, engaged to the Court House repairs, went to Lawrenceburg Indiana, where he was married to Miss Anna Warburton, an attractive young lady of that city. Mr. Clarke is a popular young carpenter and has many friends here who wish him much happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke are now happily located at the Simpson House, the hostelry for bridal parties.

HAPPY FAMILY REUNION.

The home of Mrs. Charlotte Warren, on Danville avenue, has been the happy scene of a happy family reunion during the past week. All of the children were home and the occasion was a delightful one. Following are the children: Mrs. R. A. Asbury, of Little Rock, Ark.; Mrs. J. C. Osborne, of Knoxville, Misses Jennie, Charlotte and Margaret Warren, Mr. Ashby Warren, of this city.—Interior Journal.

GOOD MULES.

Mr. J. Wade Walker sold a pair of 6 year old mules to Mr. Richard Gentry, of Boyle, for $350. These mules were about 17 hands high and will probably weigh 2400 pounds.

WHO?

The local merchant pays his taxes in this town and assists in defraying the community expenses. He is doing his part toward the building up your home. The mail-order man pays no taxes here and is doing more than his share toward destroying the community. Whom are your supporting?—Ex.

MULE COLT SALES.

Mr. B. G. Fox, of Danville, has recently bought a car load of mule colts at an average of $40 a head. They were shipped last week to Pennsylvania parties. Mr. Fox also bought last week 34 head of yearling mules of William Spillman, for a total of $3400. These mules were shipped to same parties.

OFF FOR MEXICO.

Two American battleships, the Louisiana and New Hampshire, sailed Tuesday night from Newport, R. I., to Vera Cruz, in response to an urgent request from Commander McNamee that his little fleet of gun-boats in Mexican waters, be re-enforced, in view of anti-foreign demonstrations at Carranza's capital.

GREAT COUNTRY THIS.

Three billion bushels of corn, one billion and a half bushels of oats and a billion bushels of wheat will be harvested by farmers this year, according to Government figures, breaking all previous records. America's wheat crop is the largest ever grown by any country. Tobacco will reach 28,000,000 pounds, and increase over former record crops.

GOOD SHOWS.

Mr. W. J. Romans has again assumed the management of his Opera house and is putting on some of the best pictures, or feature films, that he has ever shown in the city. "The Diamond From the Sky" which appears every Monday night is proving very popular. Some of the best vaudeville on the circuit today will be shown at this house soon, special mention of which can be seen in the Central Record. Mr. Romans believes in advertising, which in a large degree is responsible for the success of his popular house. Watch for his advertisements and don't miss the good shows that are being shown there nightly.

GARRARD COUNTY'S SHOWING.

The largest vote ever polled in a democratic primary in Garrard County was registered last Saturday. Judge Hardin's majority of 601 over Hon. C. C. Fox, is the largest ever given to one candidate over another in a democratic primary in Garrard County. This majority is exceeded only in his home county, which gave him 705. Judge Hardin and Hon. A. O. Stanley both received a larger majority in Garrard County, according to the number of votes cast, than any other County in the 13th Judicial District or in the 8th Congressional District respectively.

"GERMAN KULTUR".

There is a new German music hall song called "The Destruction of the Lusitania" which gives a new insight into German psychology. It speaks of the "flippant" Americans who in search of "sensations", traveled on the ill-fated boat. Apparently this is the German way of looking at the noble victory over helpless men, women and babies. In their music halls the Germans now sing of the great steamer sailing along her "criminal" course, carrying "Americans, Englishmen, Frenchmen and Greeks to the dance of death." "The torpedo hit true." "Those who were not suffocated were drowned. Vanderbilt was among them. It is a pity Minister Grey was not there." What a delicacy of feeling. And the remainder of the song follows the same train of thought. And then they wonder why it is possible for Americans to have anti-German sympathies, and swear that anyone who expresses an opinion against them has been "bought".

GOOD WORK FOR FRIEND.

(Danville Messenger)

A representative of The Messenger was in Lancaster at the close of the polls on Saturday and noted the good work done for both Stanley and Hardin by Joe E. Robinson, their campaign manager in Garrard county. Stanley carried Garrard by 403, the largest majority given him in this district, size of county considered. Judge Hardin carried it by 600. This work was done by Mr. Joe Robinson by reason of his friendship with both Stanley and Hardin, and not because of his holding or wanting office. He went to Centre College with Stanley and his friendly relations with Judge Hardin dates back many years. He is owner of the Lancaster Record, and when Mr. Stanley was defeated by Governor Beckham for the Senate, the Record at once began a campaign for Stanley for governor. Mr. Robinson's work is being highly complimented by all who know of the indefatigable manner in which he "beat the bushes" for his friends.

AGED SHAKERS

Inseparable in Life, Meet Death in Same Room a Few Hours Apart.

Sister Christine Johnson, aged 84, and Sister Martha Oleson, aged 87, died Sunday at Shakertown a few hours apart and were interred in the little Shaker cemetery after a double funeral service Tuesday morning by Rev. F. T. McIntire. The two were sisters-in-law and many years ago had journeyed from Illinois to join the Pleasant Hill community, and had lived in close companionship and affection from vigorous young womanhood to ripe old age. They were both women of beautiful character, quiet and industrious, and unselfish with all about them, and to many who loved them it has been a consolation that, as they were inseparable in life, death took them both to eternal rest on the same day. Sister Martha had been ill some weeks and Sister Christine had been her devoted nurse, sharing the burden of her illness with Sister Sarah Pennebaker. For several days before death came she complained of not feeling well, but would not give up her ministrations at the bedside of her friend, and Sunday morning went to the room of the sick woman, but after a few moments she laid down on a cot to rest. Shortly afterward Sister Sarah Pennebaker saw a strange look on her face and summoned Dr. Pennebaker, but the pulse of the aged woman was barely fluttering and she died almost immediately. Five hours later Sister Martha Oleson also passed peacefully away. Both women were Swedes. This is the second double funeral that has taken place in Shakertown in the last few years, and time will soon blot out entirely the few remaining members of that once vigorous and prosperous colony. Only a little handful now remain and they are watching the closing about them of life's twilight with the same simple faith and trustfulness that has always characterized the people of that community.—Herald.

CAPTURE OF WARSAW

Greatest German Achievement During the War.

The Warsaw correspondent of the London Times who left the city with the last of the Russian troops, has sent in his paper from Petrograd the following dispatch:

"The capture of Warsaw undoubtedly represents the greatest German achievement in the war and it would be stupid to minimize the character of the campaign or the bravery of the German soldiers, whose sacrifices placed them in possession of the goal for which they suffered approximately a million casualties in the space of a year. On the other hand it would be stupid to exaggerate the importance of Warsaw."

"The city was lost, not through the defective generalship or inferiority of the Russian army, but solely through the inability of Russia to convert its vast resources quickly to the uses of war. The evacuation of Warsaw was carried out from the beginning to end without the slightest confusion, panic, demoralization or discouragement. For two weeks an unending train of transports passed in orderly procession out from the city, removing everything which might be of value to the Germans."

"There was no storming of the city, for the Russians blew up the bridges at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and the Germans did not arrive on the Warsaw side of the river until 6 o'clock. The Russians played their game virtually up to the last minute and the last shrapnel shell. Then they retired in good order, leaving the Germans to enter an undefended city."

"The army throughout acted on a symmetrical plan following a time table in conjunction with all the forces from Galicia to the Baltic, which enabled them to remain until the last moment to take the maximum toll from the enemy and still escape intact ready to fight on indefinitely."

HIGH OFFICIALS TAKING TANLAC

Judges, Mayors and Prominent Business Men Try Premier Preparation.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 11th.—"I have sold Tanlac since the beginning of its introduction in Lexington, to the Mayors of a number of cities, County Judges, Circuit Judges, and to many of the most prominent business men and professional men in Kentucky," said Wm. E. Stagg, the Lexington druggist.

"The demand for the preparation has been phenomenal. In all of my twenty years' experience in the drug business I have never seen anything to equal it."

"In addition to the Lexington demand, Tanlac has been shipped from my store to Kansas City, Mo.; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Denver, Colo.; Memphis, Tenn.; Meridian Miss.; Bononia, S. D.; Pittsburg, Pa.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Louisville, Ky.; Tiffin, Ohio; Cincinnati Ohio; Columbia Tenn.; Palm Beach Fla.; Phoenix Ariz.; Los Angeles Cal., and many other points too numerous to mention. You may rest assured that every city in Kentucky also has heard of Tanlac."

"I can only account for the great demand for this preparation by the fact that it is a good medicine. That is proved by the numerous statements from those who have tested the medicine and are now convinced of its excellent merits. The public has evidently not been slow to appreciate the Tanlac merit."

"Practically $20,000. worth of Tanlac has been sold and distributed through my store within the past few weeks. Such a demand is most certainly unprecedented."

"My associations with Mr. Cooper and the agency for Tanlac has been very pleasant. I therefore take pleasure in commending Mr. Cooper and his very excellent preparation."

Tanlac, the premier preparation, on sale in Lancaster at R. E. McRoberts and in Bryansville by Becker, Ballard and Scott, where it is being introduced.

POULTRY and EGGS

FEATHER PULLING FOWLS.

To Cure This Habit Plenty of Exercise Is Recommended.

Feather eating is a vice which fowls acquire most frequently when they lack something to occupy their time, writes a correspondent of American Agriculturist. It is not unknown even where fowls have free range. The first thing is to discover the offender. Unless the fowls so destructive are of special value it is best to kill them for the table. When this is not advisable the fowls should be made to work more for their living. Instead of feeding cut bone or lean meat in chunks let them pick the meat from bones on which it has partially dried or hang up strips of dried hard meat which they will peck. The idea should be to divert attention long enough to make the fowl forget the habit.

The cure consists in removing the worst offenders and giving the others exercise. Bits of wire fastened in the mouth were formerly recommended and are still used somewhat. These are inserted so the wire passes through the upper mandible at the nostril and through the beak, which it prevents from being tightly closed. Thus the fowl cannot grasp a feather. Edges of upper mandible may be trimmed.

STANFORD.

Died, at her home in Indianapolis,
Zada Zanone Stanford, aged twenty-five years, wife of C. E. Stanford and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Zanone of this city.

Her death cast a shadow over our whole community, for most of her short but happy life was spent among us, and every heart was touched with sympathy for her loved ones, when they learned of her death. She had been ill several months and all the care of skilled physicians and a loving husband could devise and apply for her comfort were brought into play but she died at one o'clock Saturday morning; just with the awakening life of a new day she went to sleep like a tired child.

Five years ago she married Mr. C.
E. Stanford to whom she was a devoted wife, but our little city and its people ever held a place in her heart. It was here she was born and reared and when her last hours came and the God of eternity called her to her everlasting rest, it was her desire that beneath the shady trees of our Silent City, should be the abiding place of all that was mortal of her.

She was a member of the Christian church and the funeral services were conducted by Rev. F. M. Tindler last Monday afternoon. The floral offerings were beautiful and attested the love and esteem of her friends.

Family and C. E. Stanford.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the many friends and relatives for kindness and sympathy accorded us at the death of our wife and daughter,
Zada Zanone Stanford and especially
Rev. Tindler and Politt, choir, and for the beautiful floral designs.

Family and C. E. Stanford.

Prevention of Poultry Diseases.

That "prevention is better than a cure" is realized now more than ever in the poultry business, says the Kansas Farmer. Years ago cholera and other diseases among chickens caused hundreds of chicken raisers to quit the business. The loss to a flock was out of all proportion to the profit. Medicines and remedies were used, but without much success, and it became almost a universal thing to use an ax on a sick chicken. Lately, however, there has been quite a change in the management of fowl raising, and the breeder, in place of waiting till disease comes before doing anything, now uses preventives to keep disease away, and this is no more nor less than keeping the chickens and the premises where they live perfectly clean and sanitary. Cleanliness is certainly the greatest aid to success in the poultry business.

ONE YEAR OF EUROPE'S WAR

BY
GEORGE L. KILMER
LATE U.S. VIL.

[Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.]

WITH the close of July, 1915, twelve months have elapsed since the German emperor announced that a state of war exists throughout the German empire. Nine days after the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife were assassinated in the capital of the Austrian province of Bosnia dispatches called attention to marked military activity in Austria-Hungary. On July 23 Austria handed an ultimatum to Serbia demanding that Serbia disavow all anti-Austrian propaganda and that Austrian officials be recognized to conduct the inquiry as to Serbia's participation in the assassination of the archduke.

On July 24 Russia threatened extreme measures unless Austria abandoned the time limit in the Serbian ultimatum. Serbia on July 25 accepted Austria's terms, all except the provision as to Austrian officials assuming the conduct of the inquiry, and Russia announced that she would not permit Austria to wage unjustifiable war on Serbia.

On July 26 warning was issued from Berlin to other powers not to interfere with Austria's disciplinary measures against Serbia. On July 27 Austrian troops invaded Serbia and Russia com-enced mobilization. Sir Edward Grey proposed an international conference, and this proposal was rejected on July 28 by both Germany and Austria. On July 31 Germany announced a state of war. The same day France and Belgium took steps to mobilize.

Kaiser Unsheathes the Sword.
On Aug. 1 Germany declared war on Russia, and shots were exchanged between patriots. On Aug. 2 England asked Germany to respect Belgian neutrality. German columns attacked Louvain, France, and crossed into French territory near Nancy. On Aug. 3 Germany announced a state of war with Russia, and German troops invaded Poland. The German ambassador at Paris received his passports, and fighting occurred at Petit-Croix between French and German forces. Belgium refused to grant passage to German troops.

On Aug. 4 Germany declared war on France and Belgium. England this day, in consequence of the failure to obtain a pledge from Germany as to the observance of Belgian neutrality, declared war on Germany and Germany in turn declared war on England. Italy refused to join Germany. German forces attempted to surprise the forts at Liege, which barred the way from Germany into Belgium.

On Aug. 4, therefore, war existed as between Serbia and Austria, Germany and Russia, Germany and France, Germany and Belgium and Germany and England. On Aug. 6 a state of war existed between Austria and Russia. On Aug. 12 war existed between Austria and England and Austria and France. On Aug. 23 war existed between France and Germany and on Aug. 25 war was declared by Austria on Japan. On Aug. 30 Austria declared war on Belgium. On Nov. 1 the ambassadors of Russia, Great Britain and France left Constantinople. Serbia declared war on Turkey on Nov. 4, and on Nov. 5 Great Britain and France declared war on Turkey. Russia invaded Armenia on Nov. 5.

Montenegro cast her lot with the allies, and at the end of 1914 nine nations were involved—Germany, Austria and Turkey against England, France, Russia, Belgium, Serbia and Montenegro.

Belgians Stop the Invaders.
German mobilization was ordered on Aug. 1, and three days later General von Emmich was assaulting the defenses of Liege. Like a bolt out of the clear sky the German attack fell on Belgium, and to the astonishment of the world the Belgian forces defended their ground. For three days the Belgians withstood the onslaught of von Emmich's troops, and on Aug. 11 the Germans gave up the attempt to carry the Liege forts by storm and proceeded to pass into Belgian territory out of range of the guns of Liege. Liege itself had been occupied by German forces who had managed to dash into the place between the forts on the left.

The Belgians had succeeded in holding back the first onrush of the Germans sufficiently long to enable the French to come up, and on Aug. 9 the mobile army of the Belgians, which had fallen back from Liege, was enabled to form a junction with the French forces. It was on Aug. 8 that the first of the British forces were landed on French soil, and these British troops were hurried toward the Belgian frontier. The German plan called for a quick drive at the heart of France before Russian mobilization could be effected and then a turn about and a crushing blow on the eastern frontier before the Russians could be ready.

On to Paris!
Von Emmich made a rapid march through central Belgium, being supported by the armies of von Buelow and von Kluck, and by the end of August the Germans occupied the Belgian capital, Brussels, were before Antwerp, had captured Namur and burned part of Louvain and, with the Belgian, French and British forces across the border in France, began their marvelous drive toward Paris.

Sept. 2 Von Kluck was south of the Aisne river, pursuing the allies on their retreat toward Paris. Von Buelow's army was on the left of Von Kluck, and the other German armies carried the line south, inside the French border near Verdun. An invasion of Alsace by the French under General Pau early in August had collapsed entirely, and the French strength was concentrated before Paris.

On Sept. 6 Von Kluck's advance was south of Marne river, five miles from the Seine, southeast of Paris. In the night the British and French, who had retreated hastily from the Belgian border, turned upon the pursuers, and in a running fight of twelve days the invaders were forced back north of the Aisne and east of the Meuse, where the line rests up to this date.

Russia's Westward Sweep.
Meanwhile movements on the Russian frontier destined to have far-reaching results were in progress. Germans from East Prussia seized Kalisz, in Russian Poland, Aug. 3, and on the 9th Austrian invaders from Galicia drove the Russians beyond Lublin, north. On the 20th the Russian army was marching south against Lemberg, capital of the Austrian province of Galicia. By the end of August a Russian column which entered East Prussia from Wilna and Warsaw had been destroyed in a five days' battle around Allenstein and Tannenberg. This reverse in the north was counterbalanced by sweeping Russian successes in Galicia, where Lemberg was taken Sept. 3 and the Austrians driven back on Cracow. In the north the Germans ventured into Russia, but were defeated at Augustow. In October the Germans advanced on Warsaw through Poland, but were driven back to German soil. In November the Russians advanced to German soil, but at the close of the year the Germans were again within two days' march of Warsaw. Cracow, however, was under siege and Przemysl surrounded by Russians.

In October the Germans who had remained in Belgium captured Antwerp and marched to the channel coast at Ostend. During the month the French swung their left flank northward, and throughout November and December there was continuous fighting all along the line from Verdun, in northeastern France, to the Ypres canal, in southwestern Belgium, Zeppelins and British and French biplanes and other aircraft taking part.

At the beginning of 1915 the situation on the several battle fronts was as follows: The Germans occupied all of Belgium except a district in the southwest corner. Their right flank rested on the British channel near Nieuport. From this point the opposing German and allied lines ran in a general direction south, passing through or near Ypres, Belgium, and Lille, France, Peronne to Noyon, all in France. At Noyon the lines bent eastward, past Soissons to Rheims, Verdun, thence southeastward past Nancy (French) to the Vosges mountains, from where a direct southward stretch of 100 miles carried it to the border of Switzerland, partly on French and partly on German soil (Alsace). On this line of approximately 400 miles the trenches lay there were about 1,500,000 French, 350,000 British and 500,000 Belgians. The British and Belgians were on the allied left flank in Belgium and near the border. The French held the line from near Lille to the Swiss border.

Both sides were entrenched. The new year opened with fighting around Nieuport, the Germans being the aggressors. On the allied right, particularly in Alsace, along the Vosges and around Kolmar, the French took the initiative. On the eastern front the Germans were within twenty-five miles of Warsaw, Poland, and were making desperate efforts to control the passes on the Bzura and Rawa rivers.

In Galicia the Russians abandoned their long siege of Cracow and began a second attempt to invade Hungary through the passes of the Carpathians. The strength of the armies on the whole eastern front was probably 1,000,000 on each side. In front of Warsaw both armies were strongly entrenched. In the Caucasus the Russians claimed to be overcoming the Turks. Germany claimed that she held over 1,200,000 prisoners. Lord Kitchener asked for 2,000,000 more men.

The French won a small success around Steinbach, in Alsace, on Jan. 4, but this was offset on the 13th by a brilliant stroke of the Germans at Soissons, their nearest reach to Paris. The French were forced back south of the Aisne river from positions held since September. The end of January found the French at a standstill.

Czar's Armies Active.

Late in January the Russians invaded East Prussia, aiming to strike Koenigsberg, a strong German post on the Baltic. Early in February the Germans forced the fighting in front of Warsaw and at the same time drove the invading Russians from East Prussia, making heavy captures. Meanwhile the Germans recaptured Plock, on the Vistula, in northern Poland, and pushed northeast toward the Niemen river, across the Russian border. German soil was now free of foes, for the Austrians defeated the Russians at Dukla pass, in the Carpathians, and were gradually forcing them out of Bukovina, an Austrian crown province east of Galicia, which the czar's forces had occupied since September.

The Russian advance toward Hungary was met by Austrians marching north, and by the middle of February the Russians had been driven from the four great passes of the Carpathians and were held as in a vise in southern Galicia, between the mountains on the south and the Austrian front in Bukovina and the Austro-German front based on Cracow.

A Blow at Constantinople.

On the 19th of February the large fleet of allied ships made a desperate attempt to force entrance through Dardanelles strait toward Constantinople. Bombardment was kept up two days and resumed on the 25th without important results. This was intended for

The Spring Campaigns.

On the French and Belgian fronts in April there was a lull until the fourth week, when the Germans captured Les Eparges, on the Meuse, and recaptured from the French Hartmannswillerkopf, in the Vosges mountains. Furthermore, the Germans repulsed a desperate attack by the allies on the Ypres canal and crossed that barrier to the west side. In this engagement the allies were overcome by asphyxiating gas let loose upon them by their foes. For two days the battle raged at Ypres, everywhere to the advantage of the Germans, who broke up the allies' salient, seizing and holding three miles depth on a five mile front.

The month of May, which had been fixed upon by the western allies as the "real beginning of the war" on the French border, found the Germans everywhere on the aggressive. May 2 a combined German and Austrian force drove the Russians from the Bannajce line eastward, making heavy captures. Fighting continued up to the 15th, the Teutons reaching the gates of Przemysl and recapturing Jaroslaw, a railway center in the central Galician war zone. These strokes compelled the Russians to fall back from the Carpathian passes. Failing to stay the enemy's pursuit, the Russians moved east and northeast, abandoning Przemysl on the 3d of June.

From Przemysl the Austro-German pursuit led toward Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, held by Russia since Sept. 4. South of Lemberg the Austrians captured Stanislaw and drove the Russians east across the Dniester. On June 17 the Austrians captured Grodek, sixteen miles from Lemberg, and on the 21st the Germans captured Rawa Ruska, a railroad center northwest of the coveted fortress, which the Austrians re-entered as victors June 23. June 28 the Germans captured Halicz, on the Dniester river, key to eastern Galicia.

Italy Attacks Austria.

June 1 the British army casualties had reached 258,000, over 50,000 being killed. Neither the French nor British took advantage of the German absorption in Galicia to press its line in France. French artillery bombarded the Germans at Arras and in southern Alsace, but their infantry scored no substantial advance until the 23d, when they occupied the position near Arras known as the Labyrinth.

Italy's long expected entrance into the conflict, as an enemy to Germany took place May 23 by a declaration of war against Austria-Hungary. The fighting strength of this new belligerent was 3,500,000 men. Hostilities began on the 25th, Austrian naval and air ships attacking the Italian coast and Italian troops seizing Austrian territory across the northern border. Italy's primary object, as disclosed by her avowals and methods, was to extend her borders east and north. Early in June Italian troops forced a passage over the river Isonzo in an advance toward Trieste, capturing Monfalcone, an important strategic town northwest of Trieste.

War Zones and Neutral Rights.

Early in the year the attention of the whole world was focused upon the possibility of new complications involving neutral countries, but more particularly the United States.

Feb. 4 Grand Admiral von Tirpitz, chief of the German admiralty, had declared a naval war zone in the English channel and on after Feb. 18. This was an act of reprisal for the British policy of stopping food shipments to Germany. As German submarines were attacking British ships on the Irish coast, hundreds of miles from their base in the North sea, the Cunarder Lusitania, voyaging from New York to Liverpool, hoisted the United States flag as a measure of protection from attack. These two incidents drew from the United States on Feb. 11 notes to the German and British governments, protesting against the German war zone and the use of the United States flag by the merchant ships of the belligerents.

On the 15th Germany informed the United States that the war zone in the English channel would be maintained. On the 18th the German decree took effect, and a Norwegian steamer was torpedoed in the English channel. On the 20th the American steamer Evelyn was mysteriously sunk in the war zone previously declared by Great Britain in the Irish sea.

On March 1 Great Britain announced her intention to stop all ships to and from the ports of Germany. On the 15th Great Britain issued orders in council cutting off all outside trade with Germany and refused to agree with a German proposal to modify the war zone blockades. To this the United States made protest March 30.

The Lusitania Case.

On April 6 the United States formally challenged Great Britain's right to bar noncontraband trade from German ports. On May 1 the Lusitania left New York for Liverpool, having on board large quantities of war munitions and over 100 American subjects among the passengers. On the eve of sailing the German embassy at Washington published a warning to intending voyagers to Europe to avoid British liners. Also on May 1 the United States steamer Gulflight was torpedoed by a German submarine in the war zone. On the 7th the Lusitania was torpedoed and sunk off the Irish coast. Many Americans were drowned. May 13 the United States again protested against submarine warfare, citing the Lusitania case. May 20 the United States steamer Nebraskan was sunk

While the blow at Constantinople held the attention of the world by reason of its boldness the allies in northern France resumed the attacks which had been suspended all winter. March 10 the British broke the German line at Neuve Chapelle, capturing the village, and for three days the battle raged back and forth, the Germans, English and French all losing heavily. The allies were defeated in their attempt to take La Bassée and push east to Lille. The capture of Hartmannswillerkopf mountain, southern Alsace, by the French was the only other event of importance on the whole western front.

Russians Strike at Hungary.

On the east front the winter weather interfered with movements on a grand scale. March opened with the Russians everywhere on the defensive. The German column in East Prussia and northern Poland forced the enemy back behind the Niemen, Bzura and Narew rivers. In Galicia the Russians were just able to check the Austrian attempt to recapture Lemberg by the Bukovina route and to hold their own against the Austrian advance northward down the slopes of the Carpathians. But on the 22d of March the war in the east apparently took on a new phase with the advantage wholly on the side of the allies.

The fortress of Przemysl, central Galicia, which had resisted the Russians for seven months, capitulated. Over 100,000 Austrian prisoners were claimed by the captors, who quickly announced a new drive over the Carpathians to Hungary with the force set free around Przemysl. But the move broke down almost in its inception because the Austrians kept a firm front all along the east and west line in the Carpathians and at the same time scored decisively in a lunge eastward from the Cracow base.

The Russians were driven across Dunajec river, where their line projected the west flank of the column on the Carpathian slopes. By the end of April the military men realized that only a calamity to the Austro-German forces could obviate the collapse of the badly placed Russian column in Galicia, foes in front and on both the right and left flanks.

Italy Attacks Austria.

June 1 the British army casualties had reached 258,000, over 50,000 being killed. Neither the French nor British took advantage of the German absorption in Galicia to press its line in France. French artillery bombarded the Germans at Arras and in southern Alsace, but their infantry scored no substantial advance until the 23d, when they occupied the position near Arras known as the Labyrinth.

Daily Optimistic Thought.
Two cannot fall out if one doesn't choose.

Almost the Same.
"Did you ever hear of a real goose laying a golden egg?" asked the young seeker after knowledge. "No," said his experienced papa, "but a young duck—I forget his name—once laid a ten-dollar bet with me and the money was counterfeited."

Not a Credit to the Community.
We wouldn't like to be classed as a knocker, and yet we feel it our duty to call attention to the fact that our town calaboose is getting to be a mighty shoddy looking affair. There is hardly a self-respecting man in town that would be willing to spend a night in it as it is now.—Atkins (Okla.) Chronicle.

Black Foxes Hard to Raise.
Cannibalistic tendencies developed in captivity by that valuable fur-bearer, the black fox, have proved a serious drawback to the fox-raising industry of Prince Edwards Island, where 300 farmers are engaged in the business. Pups are frequently eaten by their parents, and there are also instances of females being killed and partially eaten by their mates.

Can Be Overdone.
"Practice doesn't allus make perfect," said Uncle Eben. "A man dat's continually kickin' gits so he can't make it nowise interestin'."

Daily Thought.
It is best to love, no doubt; but to love foolishly is better than not to be able to love at all.—W. M. Thackeray.

Usefulness in Growth.
Michel Angelo said: "The more the marble wastes, the more the statue grows." It is painful to see the chisel cut away the precious stone, but if grace and beauty follow, the process is worth while. Many of our losses are only the chips of stone that must fall away before the image of the Lord appears in human life.—The Watchman-Examiner.

Company's Position.
As the head of an insurance company, he decided to visit one of the districts which showed a falling off in business, and quietly investigate. While thus engaged, he was asked how his company found business, speaking for itself. "Oh, we will be about half a million ahead the first half of this year," he replied. "Ahead of what?" "Why, ahead of the undertaker."

One Explanation.
A reporter on a country paper had visited the court for a number of days in succession without raising a story and he complained: "What's the reason there is no crime stuff around here any more, judge?" "Kaint tell, bub, less'n th' constable is gittin' a leetle bit laxative," answered the justice.

Still Available.
"Ah, Miss Jolse," said the caller, "I remember meeting you when you were six years old. That was 12 years ago, and I was a young man of twenty-one, and a candidate for office. Yes, I remember the incident well, for I kissed you, and your papa voted for me." "Are you a candidate for office this year?" she coyly inquired. "Because papa is still voting."

Makes Collar-Buttoning Easy.
A clever little thing in the way of a collar button is the invention of Charles Formage of New Rochelle, N. Y. The button is an ordinary stud of solid metal, but has a tiny screw hole in its center. Into this a tapering peg is screwed. This goes through the buttonhole of a collar without any difficulty or breaking of nails or swearing on the part of the owner. When the collar is on the peg is unscrewed and the button remains.

Wrong Place.
While little Dorothy was visiting, her hostess' dog came running up and stopped before her panting. Seeing his tongue out, Dorothy said: "The not a doctor, doggie."—Boston Transcript.

Kept Him Busy.
"My wife made me a success," remarked the man. "I am glad to hear you say that," declared his pastor. "Yes, she has always wanted so many things that I've just had to hustle."—Topeka Journal.

Same Old Sandwiches.
"Nothing but caviar sandwiches," complained the man in the depot restaurant. "Why do you have nothing on sale in the way of sandwiches but caviar?" "They don't show coal dust," responded the waitress, briefly.—Puck.

His Discovery.
After a visit to a well-known entomologist, whose wonderful microscopes have proved that there is always some living thing to be found preying on the last of the minutest creatures last seen, a New York writer turned to him and said: "I came here believing myself to be an individual. I leave knowing myself to be a community."

Might Be Either.
Miss Climber—"That man is always running down other people." Miss Ascum—"Scandal or auto?"—New York Sun.

Sensible.
"The greeting 'How are you?' doesn't seem to me to represent any sincere and sensible inquiry," remarked the man who thinks hard about trifles. "That is true," replied Miss Cayenne. "When I meet several people I know I am always tempted to say 'why' instead of 'how.'"

Something of a "Snap."
Joseph had just started to kindergarten and therefore was required to go only half a day. The little boy next door saw him home one afternoon and said: "Don't you go to school any more, Joe?" "Oh, yes," Joseph replied, "but I only have to go in the morning. Ain't I got it simple?"

On the Safe Side.
"Why are you so anxious to be friendly with old Smuthe?" we ask our acquaintance. "Even if he were your friend he wouldn't do anything for you." "I know that," replied our acquaintance, who occasionally ties up his money in stocks. "What I want to do is to have him so friendly with me that he won't do anything to me."

Peculiarity of Lettuce Flowers.
Although many plants close their leaves and flowers at the approach of rain, lettuce flowers open their widest at such times.

All the Difference.
Whether a man has excusable or inexcusable faults depends almost entirely on whether you happen to like him or not.

How They Talk.
A young man has filed a divorce action because his wife cannot cook like his mother used to. Most young men who talk that way have been raised in an orphan asylum.

Metal Pump for Atomizers.
A Frenchman has invented a small metal air pump that can be fitted to any atomizer when the rubber bulb has become useless through cracking. This restores the atomizer's usefulness and will wear a long time.

Only Four Tailors!
I am aware that if you search the world over you will only find four tailors' cutters who can turn out a satisfactory pair of trousers, and that these four are resident in the Administrative city of London.—Ford Madox Hueffer in London Outlook.

Daily Optimistic Thought.
When one door shuts a hundred open.

Daily Thought.
Mind is a kingdom to the man who gathereth his pleasure from ideas.—Tupper.

Engineering Ants.
The ants of South America have been known to construct a tunnel three miles in length.

From Maxims of Marcus O'Tutt.
A habit of lolling in the Lap of Luxury does not help a man much when he finds himself lying face downward on the Knees of Chance.

Hongkong.
Geographically, Hongkong is a part of China, but politically it belongs to Great Britain, and has since 1842, when it was ceded to Great Britain by the treaty of Nanking.

His Bent.
"What is your son going to be when he grows up, Mr. Jigthorpe?" asked the visitor, patting little Willie on the head. "Well, really, I don't know yet," replied the proud parent, "but from the size of his appetite I think he has a decided bent toward the beef-packing industry."
